City Requesting Funding Assistance From the Aleutians East Borough

The Robert E. Galovin Small Boat Harbor is in terrible condition and getting worse with each passing season. It is estimated to cost upwards of $17 million to totally replace the harbor's badly worn infrastructure. Last year, the City applied for a $5 million grant from the state of Alaska to assist in rebuilding the harbor – the heart of Sand Point's economic base. Luckily, we received the full $5 million requested but with one large caveat – it has to be matched dollar-for-dollar with non-state funds!

Since that time, the City has been on a quest to try and find these matching funds. We submitted grant applications to the Denali Commission and the federal CDBG program. Shortly, we will submit an application to the federal USDA program for assistance. Needless to say, in these tough economic times, federal dollars are harder and harder to come by.

What we cannot do is lose this one-time opportunity to rebuild our boat harbor - and we cannot do it alone!

Over the past 18 months, the City has been seeking financial assistance from the Aleutians East Borough. Letters have been written to the Mayor and a presentation was made before the Borough Assembly a few weeks ago concerning this vital project. The City is asking the AEB to match any local funds raised, up to a cap of $2 million. In other words, the City is willing to go out and borrow up to $2 million to go towards the harbor project and is asking the AEB to match that effort.

At the city council meeting on March 13th, a Resolution was passed stating that the City of Sand Point will place $2 million of city funding in the harbor project account. These funds may come from bonds, borrowed money or the general fund. At the same time, we are asking the Borough Assembly to vote on a similar proposition that will allocate $2 million of Borough funds for this project. Of course, if other grant funding is found, this would lessen the amounts needed by both parties.

To me, this is a no-brainer. The harbor must be protected from further damage or total loss. The City is willing to incur a large debt over a long period of time to make this project a reality – we have no other choice. The Borough has the revenue available right now without incurring any debt. Both the City and Borough receive their lion's share of revenue from the very fisheries so dependent on safe and well-operated harbors. I would think that having the state of Alaska put up 50% of a $10 million project to improve our community and insure economic stability over the next 20 years is a no-brainer indeed.

Visit to Capitol

On our recent visit to the capitol, the Administrator, Paul Day, and I met with lobbyist Mark Hickey concerning Sand Point City projects. This includes the airport road improvement project, the main city dock, and the Robert E. Galovin Small Boat Harbor, which is in need of major repairs.

We met with representative Bryce Edgmon and Senator Lyman Hoffman expressing our concerns with funding for the airport road improvement project and the ferry terminal known as the main city dock. We are asking for the State's assistance on both of these projects.

Recent Changes and Additions

We'd like to thank our former Mayor Glen Gardner Jr. and Council Member Bill Cumberlidge for their dedicated service to the City of Sand Point.

Council Member Dennis McGlashan Jr. recently resigned from his seat on City Council to take the Water/Wastewater Supervisor position. We'd like to thank former Council Member Dennis McGlashan Jr. for his service to the City of Sand Point and welcome him aboard as an employee. The City Council appointed Danny Cumberlidge to fill Seat A until the next election, and we'd like to welcome him aboard as well.

We'd also like to welcome Dave Stokes back as our Public Works Director as of February 4th and thank Paul Karlsen for temporarily filling this position and doing a great job.

Issues

As you all know, this has been a cold, snowy winter and we are working on the road system trying to keep it graded and pot holes filled. We apologize for any inconvenience you may encounter. With this in mind, we are looking forward to the return of Brechan Enterprises to further their project in asphaltting the school loop road. Hopefully they will be starting in April of this year.

We are encountering a high rate of burglaries and criminal activity in our community and are trying to address these issues. Hopefully we can get these resolved and the perpetrators held accountable.

Mayor Gundersen presenting former Councilmember Bill Cumberlidge an award for appreciation of service.

Mayor Gundersen presenting former Mayor Glen Gardner Jr. an award for appreciation of 12 years of service as Mayor.

Reminder

Here at the Robert E. Galovin Small Boat Harbor, Sand Point Ordinance 2011-05, adopted since June 14, 2011, states "The owner of any boat tying up to the City Dock or either wall as a place of temporary moorage shall pay [4] times the transient moorage fee calculated on a daily basis until the vessel is moved from this space." These are designated loading and offloading areas only. You are more than welcome to use these areas, however; get your work done and move your boat to it's designated moorage space. Transient moorage fees are as follows: 32 ft. to 46 ft. $23.00/day x 4=$92.00/day, 47 ft. to 60 ft. $30.00/day x 4=$120.00/day. If you need more time at the wall or dock, let the harbormaster know. If the work you are doing on your vessel can be done at the stall, it is recommended that you do it there, instead of tying up the wall or dock space.

The main gripe with the harbor users is the tying up of the load and offloading areas.

Harbor Storage

For those of you that have reels stored at the harbor, please mark them so the harbor crew knows what belongs to whom. The city is in the process of cleaning up the developed property at the harbor, i.e. the place where all the endskiffs and longline reels are stored. Also, coming soon, the city will be sending storage fees for skiffs stored at the harbor: Skiffs under 16 ft. -$100/year [or any fraction thereof] 16 to 20 ft.-$150/year [or any fraction thereof], 21 ft. and up, $9.00/ft. [or any fraction thereof]. There is also a fee for leaving your freight at the city dock as a temporary storage place: $8.00/100 sq. ft/day. Minimum charge shall be $8.00/day. There is also storage at the new harbor, which should work really well for pot storage. Let the harbormaster know if you would like storage there if space is available. These revised rates have been in effect since June 2011. I am running about 6 months behind schedule, but am finally getting up to speed.

Odds and Ends

As you probably saw, the fire rescue boat was totally frozen into its moorage space earlier this year. The City has decided to move it to a new location further out on the B-float. The harbor has acquired a snow blower. Hopefully, we will no longer have to hire someone with a 4 wheeler and plow to clear the floats anymore. The machine seems to be working very well. Thanks to you who have been kind enough to take time and plow the floats for us these last few years. The arrival of the first ferry run is scheduled to arrive around the middle of April. The schedule is pretty much the same as the last couple of years, arriving Thursday evenings from Chignik and returning from Dutch Harbor Sunday evenings.

Upcoming Projects

The rebuild of the Robert E. Galovin Small Boat Harbor is still in the works. Hopefully, with the proper funding, this will happen soon. The float system in the harbor is in poor condition, but the guys keep bandaging it together. Brechan Enterprises is scheduled to be here this summer doing roadwork. They will also be putting black top in the new gearshed and along the East Wall, which will help keep the mud down a little especially along the East Wall.

Police Department News

DPS New Hires

Since the last newsletter, there has been a number of newly hired folks within the Department of Public Safety. Among them are Police Officer Daniel Beilen, Emergency Dispatchers Austin and Cheryl Roof, Fire Chief Jason Bjornstad, Fireman David Stokes, Jail Guard Michael Carroll, and Emergency Medical Services Jina Julian, Karen McMillan, and Evelyn Porcincula. Please take a moment to welcome these folks and let them know their services are much needed and appreciated by the entire community.

Criminal Acts

First and foremost on my list of enforcement in the Sand Point community is the drug activity which is affecting our entire city. This activity leads to other crimes such as burglaries, thefts, criminal mischiefs, and the list goes on and on. I can tell you this much....enforcement results are just around the corner. The ones who are actively engaged with drugs will soon be feeling the wrath of their misdeeds. This means more will be done sooner than later.

Safety Note

It's been a rather cold winter so far, with lots of snow making our roadways extremely dangerous to drive on. We've been blessed in that no one has been seriously hurt from automotive accidents. Knock on wood. For the most part, everyone has done their part by slowing down and driving cautiously due to the conditions of the roads. You can pat yourselves on your backs for that.

The biggest hazards I've seen are broken down vehicles left in the middle, or 1/2 way in the roadway for a prolonged period of time. This causes a hazard to other drivers.

Again we have been lucky that drivers have been safety minded and have avoided accidents from

If you breakdown while driving your vehicle, you should make effort to move your vehicle to a safe location until you have it repaired or towed away.

It's been the unwritten policy of this police department to locate the owner or operator of the broken down vehicle and have them move the vehicle to a safe place. However, if the vehicle is left unattended we may end up towing the vehicle and issuing the owner of the vehicle a citation, both of which would cost a sum of money.

Job Opportunities

The Department of Public Safety (DPS) has openings for Temporary Part Time Jail Guards that starts out at $16.63 per hour, it's a position paid by the State of Alaska and offers benefits and retirement. This position also provides a yearly "cost of living increase." These guards only work when we have a prisoner in jail. There is no way of saying how many prisoners we will end up with. We seem to be busier during the summer months than in the winter. You pick the shift you'd like and your name is called when needed to take a shift. All interested persons should see Ms. Mary Ann Krone at the Sand Point Police Department for applications.

The DPS also has a "all-volunteer force" in addition to the paid positions. If you don't have 40 hours a week to put forth, but are looking for something to do that really makes a difference to everyone in the community, then this is the place for you. Plus you'll receive a stipend from the City of Sand Point and a lot of free professional training. They are meaningful positions of emergency responders, often referred to as "first responders." So come on down and join up with your local Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and/or Fire Department. You can do both and there's plenty of room for you here.

Over the past 8 1/2 years that I have been here, I have seen many lives and property saved by these volunteers. Believe me, there is no better feeling on earth than to go home knowing that you were responsible for saving someone else's life. If you are interested, please see me, Jason Bjornstad, Fire Chief, or Susan Cartwright, Chief of EMS.

Mitigation Awareness

Infrequently asked Hazardous Mitigation Questions

What are the warning levels of the Tsunami warning messages?

Warning– Danger! Run for high ground and follow emergency instructions.

Advisory– Possibly dangerous local currents. Move off the beach and stay out of the water.

Watch– Potential danger. Stay tuned for more information.

Information Statement– Relax. No local danger, but a distant ocean basin may be in danger.

What is the rule of thumb about the magnitude of earthquakes that generate tsunamis?

Earthquakes of large magnitude (>M 7.0 Richter scale) sometimes result in the generation of Tsunamis.

What are the four steps of the Tsunami Warning Center product flow chart?

Step 1 Pacific Tsunami Warning Center and/or West Coast/Alaska Warning Center issue a Tsunami warning/advisory/watch/informational message.

Step 2 The message is received by the National Weather Service (NWS) Forecast Offices, state/provincial, county, local emergency services offices, broadcasters, Emergency Alert System, other federal agencies, international partners, and the public.

Step 3 County/local officials issue county/local tsunami or evacuation (when needed) message.

Step 4 This message is received by local jurisdictions, broadcasters and the public.

More Tsunami information may be obtained thru URL: <http://nthmp.tsunami.gov/documentss/guidebook-final.pdf>

In a case where there is an emergency forcing you to evacuate your residence, you most probably will have to leave on a moment's notice and in doing so you most likely will not have time to gather up critical documents you may need later. I've listed a few things you may want to put on a thumb drive and take with you quickly:

- Personal Identification
- Insurance Paperwork
- Divorce Degrees
- Social Security cards
- Stock and Bond Certificates
- Copy of recent Tax return
- Proof of Residence
- Inventory (photos) of Household Goods

Water/Sewer

Supervisor Dennis McGlashan Jr. and Operator, Eugene Alford Sr. will be getting sent out to get certified. We are working on upgrading the lift stations and have been dealing with water/sewer issues as they arrive due to the record cold temperatures.

This garbage needs to be dumped at the landfill. We are working on a new sign to erect at the beginning of the new dump road that will state whether the landfill is open or closed and include the hours of operation. If the landfill is closed during normal hours, it is usually due to high winds.

for any disturbance we are causing at night due to the back up alarms and graters, but it is safer to do the work at night before the roads get busy and the snow gets packed down. The crew is working on ditching alongside the roads when they can.

Elders - - - Here and There

-By Mary Olsen

Over the holidays I attended a buffet dinner at Alaska Native Medical Center. The hospital had won the Baldwin Award for excellence and celebrated by having a dinner for staff members and their families. Hundreds of people attended, and the menu included huge piles of king crab, shrimp, and the largest prime rib roasts I have ever seen. In the middle of the table was a huge ice sculpture of a salmon. The children were entertained with many activities such as face painting, professional photos with Santa Claus, and even horse carriage rides around Anchorage. Upon entering, I was seated as an elder at one of several rooms of tables. While I met and conversed with elders from places like Wrangell and Metlakatla, speeches and finally the blessing of food took place while four to six lines of people about a block long each formed food lines. We elders waited and waited, wondering what we were supposed to do. Finally, I got rather indignant, figuring that amid all the splendor, something had gone awry. My daughter, sensing my discomfort stated, "Go for it, Mom." I did. I walked oldly to the front of the line, picked up silverware and a plate, and presented it for a slice of prime rib. Either someone saw me or someone reminded the speaker because suddenly she announced, "Oh, Yes, Elders go first." From that moment on, we were given the most attentive service.

In Sand Point we have community pot-lucks, which are less formal affairs, where or great cooks provide most of the food by bringing their favorite dishes. A religious representative says the blessing, the people line up and fill their plates and sit at tables conversing with friends and family. For years we have followed the tradition of "Elders go first." No one ever formally defined what an "elder" was. I assumed it was someone sixty-five or older, as it's defined legally. At first, only about a half dozen people came up as elders. I appreciated the thoughtfulness and respect for our age. Over the years, I have observed how we have gradually grown in the number of elders who proudly rush to the front of the line. It's a good thing now to be an elder.

I don't know whether we have gradually developed a community awareness that the elderly are an endangered species or if it's because I have become stooped and decrepit, but I really appreciate the care and respect I receive. The clinic staff is always solicitous and caring. At the store, if not the clerks or family members, former students and other helpful people carry out my groceries. We have water aerobics at the pool just for seniors to help keep us flexible. The city doesn't charge us for water usage; we just have to keep the water running. And if we for some reason don't, they have even been known to pack water to us. And speaking for all of us who have attended, we appreciate the dinners provided by Trident Seafoods, both the food and the chance to visit with friends. I even get a sense that with all these years of living, learning, and experience, there is a respect or perhaps even an eagerness to hear our stories and what we have to say. Being an elder where you are beloved is good, whether here or there.

Letter from a Concerned Citizen

Dear Drug Dealer,

Please leave and quit selling drugs!!! You are killing your friends & family. Go get a real job and make your money honestly! When you wake up each day, does it feel good looking in the mirror and knowing that you are contributing to the destruction of many lives and families? Children are being neglected, people are stealing whatever they can from anyone, peoples teeth are rotting out and their eyes are so black and sunk in, I'm amazed they aren't dead. They may put the pipe, pill, or needle in, but it all begins with you. How will it feel when you kill one of your friends or family? Will it be worth the $ you just made? Will you comfort those who loved them; like their child who now is growing up without a father or mother? Just go AWAY!!! Don't fool yourself. We know who you are; it's only a matter of time.

Dear Drug User,

Stop using! Get help! You are responsible for you. Is it worth it? Do you feel like you are living your life to the fullest? Who's taking care of your child, not you because you are high! Smile, does a mouth full of rotten teeth look good to you? It's the drugs rotting them, not genetics. At what point will you stop blaming everyone else and start being accountable for you. Don't your children and family deserve better than this. You think because they don't see you using that your addiction is not that bad or because you don't use as much as your buddy that you are not an addict, Wake up!! YOU ARE AN ADDICT! If you are a parent, is this the best you can do for your child? How selfish are you? If you have children in your home, they are being affected by the fumes of the drugs even if you are using in another room. So, now not only are you an addict, you are predisposing your child to become one also. Wow, that must feel great!!! The effects of the drugs on your child are already taking place, their your bodies deserve better than what you are giving them and so do you!

Dear Addicts Family,

HE/SHE IS AN ADDICT! - Quit making excuses and enabling them! This addiction will kill them sooner or later if they don't get help. Get help for yourself, educate yourself, find out what you might do to help them. Learn what enabling means.
